

WATCH YE, STAND FAST,

The Text of a Sermon by Rev. Mr. Good, of Columbus.

A TALK ON PURITY IN BUSINESS.

By Mr. H. S. Parmelee, at the Y. M. C. A.—How to Obtain the Moral Strength a Christian Should Have, is to Follow the Advice of the Apostle.

Notwithstanding the heat there was a large congregation last evening at the Fourth Street M. E. church to hear Rev. Mr. Good, of Columbus, preach in the absence of Rev. Dr. Riker, who is at Mt. Lake Park. He selected for his text I Corinthians, 16, 13: "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong."

He said this passage should be followed by those who desire to put on the armor for a Christian life. There are three divisions of this passage: What kind of strength? How may it be obtained? How used? In the days when this was written, those who were the most powerful were the greatest, and met in the arena to show their physical prowess, superiority and endurance.

Apostle Paul may have had this in mind, when he addressed the Corinthians. But all Christians did not entertain this belief or have reverence for it in that light, in these days of the Nineteenth century. Their faces burn over some of the physical contests that take place and large numbers attend. Christians blessed with nobleness and high conceptions do not give attention to these sports, but believe it to be a religious duty to develop and continue in strength of Christian work. Some people think Paul had reference to intellectual strength. He wrote strong intellectually and was superior in service and philosophy in the schools in the east. He had no fault to find, Mr. Good said, and the Christian churches, through their pastors, are endeavoring to lift up all the race in intellectual strength to pure and clear conceptions of the truth; to build up that strength to do right under all conditions and time, when men are tested by severe temptations, and to make a class of men and women morally pure and courageous, strong in their convictions and with the courage of their convictions. We want men in time of peril and temptation, and the church wants men, strong physically, intellectually and morally; strong enough to withstand all temptations and to do what is right before God and man. To obtain this strength, he continued, you must realize you are a child of God, born in spirit and in harmony and fellowship with him, for you are all children in the kingdom of Christ.

To develop this Christian character amidst temptations, you must carefully read the scriptures. They are the most beautiful of all literature that appeals to the human heart; they are a preparation to meet the enemy of God. Call upon the word of God in time of peril and temptation and it will help you. Study it that you may enjoy the society of great men. You can always tell a man by the company he keeps; he will always sink to the level of his associates or elevate them to his. No man can talk with impure and vulgar associates each day in the same atmosphere without going down to where they are; no man is safe with them. Jesus, while in the midst of bad men, did not live their lives, but sought to lift them; he breathed his spirit, as pure as a sunbeam falling in a cess pool, among them, to elevate and to purify. Reading of the Bible brings you in contact with the great men; you enjoy their society under the divine influence of these men, and you will appropriate some of that divine spirit.

He related a story of a fond father, who sent his dull boy to college, and a neighbor asked him why he was wasting thousands of dollars on a ten cent boy. He replied he did not expect him to graduate; he wanted him in the society of great men; he wanted them around him that he might absorb from them what he could not learn from books. This is Christian philosophy. Put yourself in the society of good and pure men and women and you will progress in spiritual development. All efforts to approach the high standard of the spiritual throne will strengthen the moral character and improve you intellectually. It must come from above; to do right; you must make an unconditional surrender to Christ, depend on him and rely on God constantly.

What is strength? Why the necessity? There is always a crisis in every man's life. It is in the human breast. There is a great struggle and conflict, of which the world knows nothing. It is then you need to be spiritually strong in your power to say no, and stand by it. This power we members of the church of God need to guide us through the stormy scene of life; to conquer we must have more grace, courage, moral power; or ability to do right in the sight of God. We must look to ourselves, trust in Christ, believe in God with unshaken confidence and develop the Christian character to stand the test of the living God.

"PURITY IN BUSINESS."

A Talk at the Y. M. C. A. Hall by a Business Man.

At the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon Mr. H. S. Parmelee, of New York, delivered a practical talk on "Purity in Business." His address was based on the following text from Matthew 8, 34: And behold, the whole city came out to meet Jesus and when they saw Him they besought Him that He would depart out of their coasts.

He said no unlawful business could be conducted with Christ's presence. He illustrated this with the story of the casting of the devils into the swine, which thereupon perished. The herding of swine was unlawful, and the Georgians, who were Jews and yet swine herds, besought Christ to leave their country. He departed never to return. When Paul cast out the devil from the damsel of Philippi, those whose means of subsistence were thus cut off had him cast into prison. Demetrius, the maker of images, spoke against Paul, because by the apostle's preaching his trade was being ruined. Thus no unlawful business can be conducted with Christ's approval.

"How is it in our day?" inquired Mr. Parmelee. He appealed to the business men in offices, stores, and factories, and told them that the modern "sharp" business practices did not desire Christ's presence. The wielder of the dishonest yardstick, the user of short weights and measures did not desire Christ's presence.

Some of those who go out of an evening to "have a time" would be mighty uncomfortable if they remembered that Christ was everywhere and knew the unlawful places they visited. Those church members were blamed who occupied six days in worldly work and on the seventh put over all a slight veneering of religion.

Mr. Parmelee's talk was listened to with attention by a large audience, the hall containing as many as could comfortably be put into it.

The singing was joined in by all, and was led by Mr. William Clemons. In the evening Mr. Parmelee addressed a large congregation in St. Luke's church, on the island.

The Gospel's Influence.

At the Second Presbyterian church yesterday morning Rev. Dr. W. H. Cooke preached a sermon on the continued influence of the Gospel, taking his text from Mark 11, 52: And immediately he received his sight and followed Jesus in the way.

The line of thought, as pursued by Rev. Dr. Cooke, tended to show that the Gospel, though historical, has maintained an influence through the centuries, and will continue to do so forever. Jesus gave sight to blind Bartimeus, and that example still causes us to look to Him to heal our spiritual blindness. His triumph over Satan in the wilderness still exerts an influence over us, and causes us to fight the temptations and snares of the devil.

The Gospel was not only intended for the day and time it was written in, but for all ages to come, and the influence of its teachings, the examples it contains, are still the leading forces.

Supported in Their Demands by the Trades Assembly.

A LIST OF THE NEW DELEGATES.

Officers for the Ensuing Term and a Chief Marshal for the Labor Day Parade Elected—Delegates of Local Union 4091 Refused Admission to the Assembly.

The following resolutions were read yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Trades Assembly and adopted unanimously:

We, the Ohio Valley Trade and Labor Assembly view with alarm and regret the present state of affairs at Homestead, Pa., where the introduction of armed men provoked a conflict and loss of human life; we consider the presence of such mercenaries a shameful reproach to American institutions, a modern introduction of the feudal times, with the baron and his retainers—yet in the very wrong there is a remedy. If the agitation of organized labor, if science and progress are unable to arouse the masses, there are men like Frick who will bring it about. The whole country is ringing with indignation against the doing of the cynical millionaire anarchist, who, with his electricity and Winchester rifles is daily accomplishing what we have failed to do.

Wherein lies the remedy for these wrongs in our modern society, is the question that presents itself. The theory enunciated by Chief Justice Waite, namely, that the state has the right to regulate the conduct and charges of any business "affected with a public interest," certainly throws a gleam of light on the situation. As the state is bound to protect the individual citizen in his property right, and the workman's labor is his property, it must not permit to any business the power to interfere, except with the proviso that it, the state, reserves the right to such control as will enable it to prevent such injustice; and even when special franchises are not conferred we must not forget that a greater power than the state, modern civilization itself, has given franchises no less valuable to other enterprises of great magnitude, and which, if not under control of the people, gives them the power to extort; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the Ohio Valley Trade and Labor Assembly, send greeting to our brothers at Homestead, Pa., and that we will stand by them in their unequal struggle for right and justice, by every lawful and honorable means in our power;

Resolved, That we are determined the Pinkerton method must go; that our secretary be instructed to communicate with the member of Congress of this district and inform him that we desire a federal law as a remedy against this rule;

Resolved, That we demand the enactment of a law at the session of the next legislature forever forbidding the introduction of armed men being brought into the state under control of private parties.

QUALIFICATION OF DELEGATES.

The following delegates were qualified: Crescent Lodge, A. A. of I. S. & W., Joseph Purcell, John V. Mehean and Fred Williams; local union No. 15, A. F. G. W. U., Martin's Ferry, Victor Foote and J. Miller, Monroe Marple and Ed Welke; Typographical Union No. 79, F. M. Milligan, Jacob C. Boes and J. F. Francis; L. A. 255, K. of L., dipper and sugar makers, Peter Englehardt.

Local Union No. 146, United Mine Workers, District 17: H. A. Foster, Jere Meade and W. S. Borisford. Electric street car union No. 5193: O. J. Tarr and Charles McBride. Local union No. 5028: Edward Strontman, Gabriel Jackson and Alex Gardner. Jewelry clerks: H. C. Dunn, Charles McKelvey and Alex. Riheladfer. Carriage and wagon workers union No. 6: Frank Griswell, John Leadley and P. F. Farrell. Local Union 20, Horse Collar Makers: J. W. Reddall. Local Union 58, A. F. G. W. U.: Albert Busker and O. M. Donley. Garfield Assembly, cigarmakers: Roman Dobler, John Norington, Charles Stein, Henry Floto and George J. Zimmer.

The election of officers was now in order, and after the nominations had been made and closed, tellers were appointed and a ballot taken. Roman Dobler, of Garfield Assembly, was elected president; H. A. Foster, a coal miner, vice president; T. V. Salisbury, secretary; treasurer, I. W. Imhoff; trustees, Jere Meade, William O'Neill and Gabriel Jackson. Mr. Salisbury has served as secretary since the first term in 1889. The officers elected were duly qualified by President Donley.

Before retiring Mr. Donley thanked the assembly for the uniform courtesy with which he had been treated, and made way for Mr. Dobler. The latter on taking the chair thanked the assembly for the honor conferred upon him, and hoped that the assembly would in future exert the same influence for good that it had in the past.

Nominations for the position of chief marshal in the labor day parade were in order, and Messrs. Imhoff, Donley, Purcell, Foster, Wicard, Uthman, Boes and Stein were placed in nomination. Messrs. Donley, Foster, Wicard, Uthman, Boes and Stein declined the nomination, and on a ballot being taken Mr. Imhoff was elected chief marshal.

GENERAL COMMITTEE REINFORCED.

Delegate Jackson inquired if it was true that at the Labor Day picnic the colored people would not be allowed to dance, because their dancing platform had not paid at the last picnic. He was assured that no such move was contemplated.

A motion to add to the general committee twenty men more was amended to include a colored man on the general committee, and the amendment was carried. Gabriel Jackson was the colored man selected.

Chief Marshal Imhoff selected Mr. Purcell as assistant chief marshal. The trustees were instructed to place the initial letters of the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor Assembly on the front of the hall, instead of the letters "K. of L." already there, and they were instructed to repaper and brighten up the interior of the hall.

The general committee on Labor Day announced that the firemen's race on Labor Day between the Bellaire and Martin's Ferry teams would come off.

The auditing committee appointed to examine the books and accounts of the treasurer and trustees, reported the accounts O. K. and a balance on hand in the treasury of $903.61. The salary of the treasurer was increased to $10 a term.

The delegates of local union, No. 4091, which includes the workers at the Etanville mines, were not permitted to qualify. The national association of united mine workers of America does not allow miners to join other associations, but requires all miners to belong to some lodge of miners, and as coal miners belong to local union 4091, the Assembly refused to admit its delegates, unless the miners shall first have left it and organized a union of their own. The delegates were instructed to notify local 4091, that of the miners belonging to the union were to secure a charter from the national committee of the United Mine Workers and leave local union 4091, the delegates of the local would be admitted to the deliberations of the Trades Assembly.

A delegate of the A. F. G. W. U. reported, that it was feared the Northwood firm, of Martin's Ferry, intended to run a non-union glass house at Ellwood, Pa. He wanted something done, and was instructed to put the grievance in writing and lay it before the Assembly.

WORTH MORE THAN 70 CENTS

On the Dollar is the Street Railway Stock.

So Says a Stockholder.

An INTELLIGENCER reporter asked a street railway stockholder whether he thought the proposition of the syndicate would be generally accepted.

"As to that I can't say. It will not be accepted by me. It is an astonishing proposition." Is the property worth very much less than it was six weeks ago when the syndicate bought it. It may be said to be worth less by the amount of the increased indebtedness, but that does not, of course, equal 30 cents on the dollar, yet this is the present valuation of the syndicate for buying purposes. The syndicate put in $10,000 in good money. Allow $15,000 for the line over the river and the remainder is what they paid for our stock at par.

Now observe that they knew exactly the condition of the company, certainly to within about $1,000 of the floating debt, and this could not be known definitely until all the bills were in. But this, too, they understood. They know the capital stock is $170,000 and the bonded debt $200,000. Add to this the floating debt of $65,000 and you have $435,000 as the basis on which they bought a controlling interest. I know of nothing that has happened to depreciate the stock 30 cents on the dollar.

"That property, with its valuable franchise, is worth $500,000. The men who control it know this. They would like to have the whole thing and want to get it as cheap as they can. It will not take anything like $300,000 to put the line in first class condition. I have reason to believe that half that sum will be ample to pay the floating debt and make all the improvements in contemplation. If they are going to change to the single trolley system they have nearly all the wire they will need. There are two wires overhead. They will use one of these to lay under the rail. Two miles and a half of new track is all they will have to put down. The rest is comparatively new, certainly in good condition. They name the large amount of money to scare the Wheeling stockholders into selling out at their figure.

"Don't you be afraid the road will go to sale to pay its debts. The syndicate will take care of that. They paid par to control the road, not to lose control of it through a public sale. If it were to go to sale they have no idea that they could buy it in at 70 cents on the dollar. It would not surprise me if in that event they would have to pay more than par to get it."
